PROMOTING EDUCATIONAL REFORM—Carol Taff, left, and Philip Pierce, both from Gov. William Winter's office, talk with Bay St. Louis citizens concerned with the quality of education in Mississippi at a meeting in Bay St. Louis City Hall Monday. The two are working to organize state-wide citizen support for educational reform in Mississippi. Nine Educational Forums are slated for August and September to receive citizen input on changes that should be made. (Staff photo by Brent Macey)

Hancock support sought for educational reform

By BRENT MACEY

Staff members of Governor William Winter's office met with Hancock County citizens to rally support for a Governor's Educational Forum slated Oct. 19 at 7 p.m. at the Mississippi Gulf Coast Junior College in Pascagoula.

Carol Taff and Philip Pierce of the governor's office met with educationally concerned citizens in Bay St. Louis City Hall Monday to lay the organizational groundwork needed to enlist public support.

Pierce noted numerous studies on education in Mississippi have been conducted since 1952, "but nobody has ever tried to get communities and people involved."

"We want to harness all the energies of the people in this state and show the legislature and public officials that we want something done about the quality of education in Mississippi," Pierce said.

Pierce noted that "education and quality of life go hand in hand." He and Taff both noted Mississippi is far behind other states in the quality of education available to young people.

Taff said purpose of the forum "is not to tell you what the governor wants to do but to get information from you about what can be done to update the educational system."

She noted nine other forums have been scheduled across Mississippi at the end of September and in October.

Taff explained that Winter would be at each forum and is expected to give a 20 minute speech at the opening of each one.

Following the governor's opening remarks, Taff said she thinks the audience will gather in different groups to discuss various interests in education.

She noted group discussions may include compulsory education, financing, administrative efficiency, early childhood education, teacher salaries and lay board of education proposals.

Following Monday's brief opening statements by Taff and Pierce, committee heads were chosen from the group. Information sheets offering suggestions of how each committee could operate were distributed to the committee chairmen.

Geraldine Lang and Brenda Scafidi were chosen as forum coordinators in Hancock County.

Anyone interested in obtaining additional information or in serving on any of the forum planning committee groups, including transportation, publicity, PTA, civic clubs, churches and businesses, should contact Lang at 467-9586.

July samples show

Pass Christian waters among Coast's purest

By BRENT MACEY

Water samples taken along the Gulf Coast in August showed Cedar Avenue in Pass Christian to be one of the cleanest areas for recreational swimming along the Gulf Coast.

A fecal coliform bacterial count—the count of a harmless bacteria associated with harmful pathogens—showed the monthly water quality was well within standards set for recreational waters.

The State Bureau of Pollution Control has set a fecal coliform count of 200 per 100 milliliters of water as the maximum fecal coliform level for safe recreational swimming.

The average sample taken during August at Cedar Avenue showed the 151 count of fecal coliform per 100 milliliters of water.

According to weekly tests in 10 areas of the Gulf Coast, the area near Gulfside Methodist Association in Waveland also proved to meet recreational standards.

The average pollution count in that area showed the water to contain 30 counts of fecal coliform when averaged over a monthly period.

Bay St. Louis waters in an area sampled near St. Stanislaus, showed water quality to have improved tremendously since the month of June.

Water samples at that site showed the fecal coliform count to average 663 for the month, a tremendous drop from June of this year when the count measured 24,000 per 100 milliliters of water.

Other areas along the coast which were shown to be in line with recreational standards included, Belle Fontaine Point in Ocean Springs with a count of 48, and Longfellow House with a count of 147.

All other areas tested weekly in Gulfport and Biloxi showed high fecal coliform counts above the standard set for recreational swimming.

Cement some one-and-one-half feet thick underlying Main Street in Bay St. Louis poses problems for city utility workers attempting to replace gas and water lines.

$2.5 million loan not expected to increase Bay utility rates

By BRENT MACEY

Repayment of a $2.5 million loan which the Bay St. Louis City Council hopes to obtain to construct a sewer main in the city's annexed areas is not expected to increase utility bills or taxes, City Clerk Eddie Favre told citizens attending a council meeting Tuesday.

Favre said the city is hoping to repay the loan, if it is granted, with money in a municipal bond fund which will be available at the end of 1983. Currently money in that fund is being used to repay a street bond which will be retired in the later part of next year, he said.

Interest from three reserve accounts, which the city is required to maintain until a $3 million sewer bond is retired, will also be used to repay the loan, he added.

Money from additional customers who will connect to the sewer line once it is completed will also be used to pay back the loan, he stated.

Councilman James Thriftley III estimated some $2,000 or $3,000 monthly will be made available in that manner.

In addition, money currently designated for use to repair and replace utility lines may be used to repay the loan if the money is not used for repairs.

Favre, after responding to a question posed by Councilman Lang, president of the Citizens' Advisory Committee of Hancock County, said, "At this time we do not anticipate any utility rate increases."

He noted she was not alone in her belief that rates would increase.

She noted Bay St. Louis customers will carry the full burden of a 23 percent increase by United Gas in September. Other estimated 10 percent increases are expected in January and July of next year.

"I don't know how we are going to be able to pay for these increases," she said, and asked the council what could be done to prevent utility companies from increasing rates.

Thriftley blamed the rate increases on legislation granting utilities a "guaranteed nine percent profit."

He suggested the people contact their congressmen about changing that legislation.

"It's a license to steal," he said about the legislation.

"They (utility companies) send their employees on a trip to Europe, buy new company trucks, new equipment...at the end of the year they show a loss."

Also at the meeting, the council opened bids for widening and paving Main Street from Beach Boulevard to Second Street.

Bids received by the council and taken under advisement include proposals of $139,973 from Necaise Construction of Long Beach; $138,700 from Southland Enterprises of Gulfport; $136,416 from Bond Paving Company of Gulfport; and $126,067 from Southland Construction Company of Gautier.

At the close of the meeting, Bill Johnson, utility department head, noted the utility crews have found replacing water and gas lines on Main Street to be more difficult than was first expected.

Bay St. Louis has agreed to replace those lines prior to having the street widened and paved.

Johnson said cement some one-and-one-half feet thick was discovered under the existing asphalt. Beneath the concrete the street is also lined with oyster shells.

He anticipated it might take city crews two months to replace the gas lines.

Council President Harry Favre suggested the city hire two more men to speed up the job up after it was revealed that only four city workers, the total number of workers in both the gas and water departments, are working on Main Street.

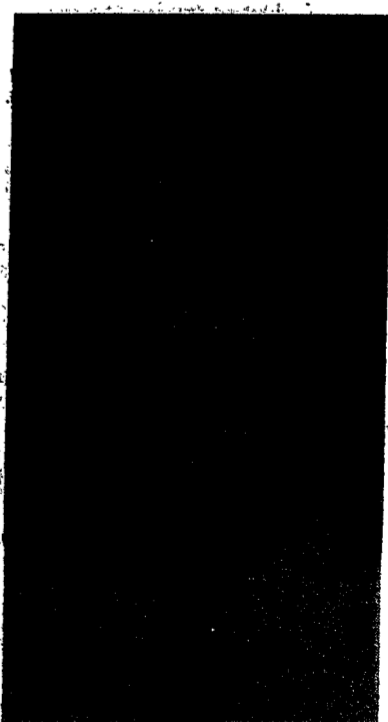

Johnson noted he has to take the men off the Main Street job whenever an emergency occurs somewhere else in the city.

No action was taken by the council, however, and council members agreed to look into the possibility of having the company hired for the repaving job assist in tearing up existing lines.

Also at the meeting, the council decided against increasing the amount of money allocated each house selected for rehabilitation under the 1961 Small Cities Project.

Currently $10,000 is available through HUD to renovate houses whose owners fall into a poor and moderate income bracket.

The Citizens' Advisory Committee with the project had requested that $10,000 figure be increased to $15,000 because several homes considered for renovation could not be rehabilitated for $10,000.

Cities responsible for warning public of Coast's water quality

By BRENT MACEY

Although many areas along the Gulf Coast continue to show pollution levels above standards set for safe recreational swimming, warnings of possible health hazards associated with swimming in those areas apparently have not been issued since 1974.

Notifying the public of health hazards in Mississippi Sound waters apparently is the responsibility of city governments along the coast.

In 1974, the State Health Department required cities along the coast to warn swimmers of possible health hazards if tests showed the waters did not meet levels set for recreation.

Joe Brown, director of the Bureau of Environmental Health with the State Health Department, stated requirements to post such notices are still in effect.

However no signs warning the public have been erected since 1974.

Brown recalled a Board of Health meeting in 1974 and the resulting notice that was sent to city governments.

"They (the cities) apparently took it (the order) as meaning signs should be posted along the beach," Brown said.

He noted Gulfport and Ocean Springs did erect signs.

Biloxi never responded to the Health Board order, he said. Both Gulfport and Ocean Springs eventually took down the signs in those areas.

At the time of the Board of Health's demand, Brown noted "a curious jurisdictional problem arose" concerning who had authority over the beach.

He said the cities claimed the beach was not under their authority since US-90 along the beach is a state highway.

That action was apparently the last time a concerted effort was made to inform the public of a possible health hazard, although Brown noted, water quality "remains pretty much the same" as it was 1974.

He claimed his organization does not have authority to take legal action against the cities.

Robert Seyfarth, coordinator of the Water Quality Management Section of the Bureau of Pollution Control, noted the bureau confines itself to contacting local officials concerning water quality and making recommendations on how to improve those conditions.

In terms of legal action, Seyfarth claimed the bureau does not take enough water quality samples to take action against a city.

Currently the bureau takes samples approximately once a week from 10 selected areas along the coast.

"We should have at least 10 samples per month," Seyfarth said.

Seyfarth noted finding the source of the pollution problem could also compound the problem of enforcing restrictions on areas failing to meet recreational standards.

He said the bureau could take action against an industry if a pollution problem could be linked directly with the facility.

However, he noted the bureau is currently in the process of determining how to pinpoint areas which may be the source of a problem.

That effort is being undertaken in cooperation with the University of Southern Mississippi which has a contract with the bureau to undertake studies.

Work has been conducted throughout the summer to pinpoint problem areas in Gulfport.

As a result of the study, Seyfarth stated he hopes guidelines and procedures will be established which will help municipalities to track down problem areas which contribute to pollution in the Sound.

School officials flip-flop in well pump controversy

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

The Hancock County School Board Tuesday morning reverted to its original plan to repair a well pump at Charles B. Murphy Elementary School in Pearlaring.

The board's action was the result of a reversed opinion by its consulting law firm, Gex, Gex and Phillips of Bay St. Louis.

At an April 23 meeting the board declared a retroactive emergency and authorized Braden Pump and Well Service, Inc. of Gulfport to replace the pump after Billy Sills, former superintendent of education, directed the work on April 14 to restore water service, which allowed resumption of classes the next day.

The pump has since stopped operating because it apparently needs adjustment and the company would not perform the work because the board refused to pay for the installation. During the ensuing months the board refused payment of Braden's $2,500 bill for the pump replacement and Monvel Cuevas, board president, in a Aug. 2 letter requested a legal opinion from Joseph Gex of the firm regarding payment.

Gex, in an Aug. 6 letter read at an Aug. 7 school board meeting, replies, "...the school board would be in error should they pay the invoice for the pump and well service as submitted." "It is our opinion that Mr. Sills exceeded his authority in allowing the work to be performed in a manner which would exceed the statutory requirements, which would necessitate submitting the work to a bid," Gex reports.

"It is therefore our opinion that the necessary work be let out for bid at the earliest possible time in order that the work will be completed before the beginning of school," the attorney concludes.

The board voted to seek the bids and ordered the pump removal as recommended by Gex.

At a special meeting three days later called especially to meet with Gex, he advised the board they would have to pay Braden for some $1,500 in labor charges and seek the quotations to restore well operation.

William Haddock, interim superintendent of education, at a Saturday board meeting said his interpretation of state law found the board could pay Braden for the emergency work.

But Gex and the board disagreed, reaffirmed the emergency and again directed Haddock to seek three quotations.

But at the Tuesday meeting, Haddock presented a written opinion dated Aug. 14 from Walter Phillips of the firm.

Phillips states he is submitting the opinion "in the absence of your (the school board's) regularly sitting attorney."

Based on his interpretation of state law, Phillips reports, "...an emergency existed and if not rectified immediately the usefulness of a public building, to-wit: Charles B. Murphy Elementary School, would end and it was necessary to restore the water distribution system immediately."

The attorney concludes the pump purchase and installation were not in violation of state law.

The board voted to accept a resolution drafted by Phillips which confirms and ratifies the emergency situation and pledges to pay Braden's bill.

Johnny Banks, a board member who has opposed almost all board decisions regarding the well, cast the only negative vote.

Louie Ladner, a board member, did not attend the meeting.

Classes were scheduled to begin at all Hancock schools Wednesday.

In other business at the 9 a.m. recess meeting at the D. M. Russell Sr. Youth Court Center in Bay St. Louis, the board:

—Rescinded a portion of the minutes from a previous meeting which authorized advertisements seeking bids for student insurance. The board directed principals to select insurance companies and pledged to seek bids for the coverage for the next school year.

—Appointed Walter Damiani interim

Gulfview Elementary School principal until Haddock returns to the post;

—Authorized Damiani to receive a $200-per-month supplement for those duties and hiring a substitute teacher to temporarily fill-in for the instructor;

—Released Altoral, Cachanda and Karen Terrell, all of the Ansley Community, from the district to attend Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District schools during the 1982-83 school year;

Recessed until 9 a.m. Saturday.

BRINGING HOME BACON

Bringing home the bacon has been a part of the weekly routine of at least six out of 10 families since the days when most families produced and cured their own bacon.

Because the demand for bacon remains fairly constant at high or low prices, periods of short pork supply sometimes mean spectacular increases in bacon prices. While bacon is practically never economical on a cost-per-serving basis, decreased pork supplies are helping to offer a chance to buy bacon at price reductions, especially to those who are willing to switch type or brand.

Bacon once held the distinction of "outselling" all other cured meats for breakfast use. While this is probably true, the gradual trend away from the traditional weekday breakfast has reduced demand for breakfast meats but has not reduced the demand for bacon.

In modern diets, bacon and eggs are almost as likely to be served for noon or evening meals as for breakfast. With or without eggs, the crisp texture and characteristic flavor of bacon make an important contribution to family and party meals at any time of the day. Not only is it a favorite ingredient of vegetable salads, bacon improves the texture and flavor of casseroles and adds a special touch to steak, ground beef, or chicken fillets. For party foods, bacon is equally at home in dips or appetizers.

For the past ten years, bacon has maintained its position in the family frying pan, despite its position on the griddle of regulatory agencies. In early 1970's, bacon became a cancer-causing suspect because of the nitrates and nitrites used in its curing process. Studies and regulation changes followed.

Uses of nitrate were prohibited in bacon curing, and nitrite levels were reduced. As studies continued, it was recognized that "nitrite-free bacon" could be a greater danger to health than bacon that contained small amounts of nitrite. Still a nitrite-free formula for bacon was approved, which apparently was not well accepted.

In August of 1980, the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) and the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) issued a statement that took bacon off the controversial griddle, at least for the present.

"A group of independent pathologists has completed an extensive review of the study conducted at Massachusetts Institute of Technology that led us in 1978 to consider the need to phase out nitrite as a preservative in cured meats and poultry. As a result of the review and evaluation, we have concluded that there is no basis for USDA or FDA to initiate any action to remove nitrite from foods at this time."

Because of its high cooking shrinkage, bacon provides smaller servings and less food value per dollar spent than most other meats. Yet, bacon has advantages. It keeps longer in the refrigerator than most other uncooked meats; it goes from package to pan with no extra preparation; and it cooks quickly.

Bacon's one redeeming point in terms of economy is that a little goes a long way in satisfaction value. With an egg (or pancakes or a serving of beans), we're likely to be satisfied with two or three thin slices of bacon that weigh no more than an ounce. Sausage or ham, used to replace bacon in these or other combinations, costs less per ounce; but two to three times as many ounces of sausage or ham are usually needed for appetite satisfaction.

Sliced slab bacon is often featured at a lower price than packaged sliced bacon. For families who like thick slices of full flavored bacon, sliced slab bacon can be both satisfactory and relatively economical.

Because sliced bacon loses flavor more rapidly than unsliced bacon, in-store slicing may provide a flavor advantage.

BACON CHIVE RICE

3 slices bacon, diced
3 cups cooked rice
1/4 cup chopped chives
1/2 teaspoon salt
One-eighth teaspoon ground black pepper
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce

In large skillet cook bacon until crisp. Add rice, chives, and seasonings. Mix well and heat thoroughly. Makes 6 servings. Serve with roast beef, broiled steak, broiled liver.

HOT BACON APPETIZERS

1/2 pound bacon, cooked and crumbled
1/4 cup (ounces) shredded process American cheese
1/4 cup butter or margarine, softened

2 teaspoons caraway seeds
50 melba toast rounds
Combine first 4 ingredients, mixing well; spread evenly on toast rounds. Place on baking sheet, and broil 2 minutes or until cheese melts. Serve hot. Yield: 50 servings.

BURGUNDY-BACON MEATBALLS

24 slices bacon
1 pound ground beef
3 tablespoons finely chopped onion

1/2 cup burgundy
1 cup soft breadcrumbs
1 egg, beaten
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1/4 teaspoon thyme
1/4 teaspoon pepper
Mustard Sauce

Partially cook bacon until it is transparent; drain on paper towels, and set aside. Combine the next 9 ingredients; mix well. Shape into 1-inch balls. Cut bacon slices in half crosswise; wrap bacon around each meatball and secure with a wooden pick.

Place meatballs on a jellyroll pan; bake at 375 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes or until bacon is done and meatballs are brown. Drain on paper towels; transfer to a chafing dish containing 1/2 cup Burgundy. Serve with Mustard Sauce.

MUSTARD SAUCE
1/2 cup Dijon mustard
1/2 cup mayonnaise
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Combine all ingredients in a small bowl; mix well. Yield: 1 cup.

Chevrolet donates car for Perk auto training

Mississippi Gulf Coast Junior College in Perkinston just received an Impala from Chevrolet to further students' automotive mechanical careers.

So far, nearly 4,500 brand-new passenger cars and trucks, damaged by accidents, floods or other mishaps on their way to dealer showrooms, have been donated to schools and other institutions.

Richard E. Lannen, Chevrolet's national director of service operations, said that in the past nine years most of the 50 states have received these free vehicles for their vocational educational programs.

"We started this program in 1971 because we found schools could really use these cars and trucks that would normally be tossed into the scrap crusher," he said. "In addition to these damaged vehicles, engineering test and pilot line vehicles, not suitable for sale, are included in the program."

Brighten the house with polished windows

Don't miss the beautiful sunshine of autumn because of summer dirt and grime on your windows.

Frances Fortenberry, housing specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, offers these helpful hints and solutions to the problem.

"First, decide if you want a home cleaning mixture or an aerosol spray," Fortenberry said. "The aerosol spray reduces the amount of equipment that must be carried around. Just spray the cleaner on and wipe the glass clean with soft paper towels. Or, save money by using newspaper."

Many simple home mixtures will clean windows. Fortenberry suggests these solutions:
—Add 4 tablespoons of household ammonia to 1 quart of warm water for heavy greasy soil.
—Add 2 tablespoons of vinegar to 1 quart of warm water for water spots.
—Use 1 tablespoon of kerosene to 2 quarts of warm water for light greasy soil.

—Use 1 tablespoon of washing soda to 1 quart of warm water for general cleaning.

"If you are using a home mixture, a different application method is recommended," Fortenberry said. "Dip a sponge or soft lintless cloth into the solution and squeeze it dry. Wash the top, the bottom, then the middle of the pane. Rinse and repeat if needed. Polish immediately with paper towels or newspaper. Change the solution as soon as it is dirty."

Fortenberry also suggests some don'ts for cleaning windows.

"Don't wash windows when the sun is shining. The material dries fast and may streak the glass. Don't use soap because it will leave a film on the pane," she said. "Keep supplies at your fingertips," she said. "If you are using a ladder to clean outside windows, place the cleaning product and paper towels in the bucket and attach the bucket to the ladder."

Fortenberry also stresses safety precautions in cleaning windows.

Many of our area schools are now open with others ready for the same move within a few days.

This means school zones are now being monitored by police, so please be careful and observe all school signals.

Some children use bicycles to travel to school while others walk, and many parents use autos for transportation, so traffic picks up in the mornings and evenings.

This means some slight traffic jams at times and we urge everyone to leave a little earlier so they will get wherever they are going on time without having to rush.

Youngsters waiting for school buses and on bicycles seem to forget traffic rules at times, so motorists have to use a little extra caution.

A problem that pops up each year is persons passing school buses while they are loading or unloading students, this is unlawful.

We hope every student will have a safe school season.

The Hancock Junior Deputies are sponsoring a Country and Western Show Friday night at the Hancock County Fairgrounds.

We understand some very good entertainment is lined-up locally for this show in addition to Grand Ole Opry Star Charlie Louvin and The Sand Mountain Band.

We hope many will try and attend this benefit which begins at 6:30 p.m. at the Fairgrounds Building on Longfellow Road.

Nathan Hoda, Hancock deputy and advisor for the junior deputies, says tickets are still available and will also be on sale at the door.

We hope to see you at the fairgrounds tomorrow night.

Another benefit on tap for Friday night is a teen dance at the Disabled Veterans Hall on Main Street in Bay St. Louis sponsored by the Tiger Pride.

As many of us know the Tiger Pride really won all types of honors at the Annual Cherry Blossom Festivities in Washington this past spring.

The dance will be from 8 p.m. until midnight.

Hancock, Waveland probes net suspects, stolen goods

By WAYNE DUCOMBE JR.
Hancock County Sheriff's Department and Waveland Police Department investigations resulted in several arrests this week and the recovery of stolen items worth several thousand dollars.

Three men were scheduled to appear Wednesday night before Justice Court Judge Bruce Necaise facing various charges stemming from a recent burglary at Crosby and Son's Appliances on US-90 in Bay St. Louis.

Investigator Delbert Seay of the sheriff's department Wednesday reported James K. Crosby, 19, of Camille Trailer Park in Waveland is in Hancock County Jail in Bay St. Louis under $6,000 bond.

Crosby was arrested Tuesday morning and charged in the appliance store burglary and also in connection with a theft three weeks ago of four tires and rims valued at approximately $1,000 from an automobile at Schuffert Pontiac-Buick-GMC, Inc. on US-90 in Bay St. Louis, Seay said.

The investigator reported a 17-year-old boy was also arrested and is in the custody of the Hancock County Youth Court in connection with the Schuffert incident.

The four tires were recovered in the arrests, he added.

Also arrested Tuesday, charged with relieving stolen property, released on $5,000 bond and scheduled to appear before Necaise are Olen D. (Red) Bounds, 41, of 810 Washington Street in Bay St. Louis and William Sutherland, 28, of the trailer park, Seay said.

The investigator reported four microwave ovens valued at about $2,000; a $500 stereo system; and some $500 cash and checks were stolen from the store.

He said all the stolen items were recovered except for "some cash" and a $726 microwave oven.

Seay noted the three ovens were recovered from individuals in Houma, La.

Assisting Seay in the investigation was Deputy Dennis Tartavouille.

Regarding another burglary arrest, Seay reported an investigation by he and Investigator Sandra Henley of the Waveland department led to the arrest of a Clermont Harbor man.

William LaForce, 18, of Bordage Street is scheduled to appear for a Sept. 1 preliminary hearing at 6 p.m. before Justice Court Judge Lee Klien facing grand larceny charges stemming from the recent theft of a 25-horsepower outboard motor and gasoline tank valued at $1,500 from Robert Killeen, also of Bordage Street, Seay revealed.

The investigator said LaForce was released the day of his arrest, Monday, after posting $1,000 bond.

In other recent police action, Crystal L. Schoonmaker, 19, of 625 Old Spanish Trail in Waveland was arrested Monday night, charged with burglary in a March break-in at Waveland Elementary School and released on $2,500 bond, Henley said Wednesday.

Schoonmaker is scheduled for a preliminary hearing in Waveland City Court tonight and was recently indicted by a County Grand Jury in a break-in several months ago at The Eatery on North Beach Boulevard in Bay St. Louis, Henley revealed.

The Waveland investigator said Schoonmaker is the last of two adults and juveniles to be arrested in the school theft which netted a meat slicer and cold cuts.

She added the meat slicer was recovered in the previous arrests.

Henley also confirmed John McDonald, 30, of 4345 Elder St. in Moss Point was arrested by Patrolman John Wilkerson Saturday night at the corner of US-90 and Nicholson Avenue in Waveland.

She said McDonald is charged with possession of stolen property and scheduled to also appear in city court tonight.

Jail records indicate McDonald is still being held in lieu of $500 bond. Henley stated, "Saturday at about 4:15 p.m. we got a call from the owner of the Flea Market who reported a man wanted to sell the store some shirts which still had T.G. and Y. price tags on them."

The store manager at T.G. and Y. in Waveland inspected the shirts and said they came from the store, but he could not prove that McDonald took the items. McDonald was charged with possession of stolen goods.

The shirts are valued at about $80, she added.

FUGITIVE NABBED
An Oklahoma man is in county jail until he is transported to Texas to face burglary charges and a parole violation, Henley confirmed.

Raymond L. Tiller, 22, of Claremore waived Texas extradition proceedings and will be returned to that state, she said.

Henley explained Tiller's automobile broke down on US-90 in Waveland Sunday afternoon. Wilkerson arrived, checked the fugitive's name through the National Crime Information Network which revealed the Texas warrant and arrested him.

CAR THEFT

The sheriff's department is seeking extradition of three Cubans nabbed this week by Gonzales Louisiana police in the Friday theft of a Pearllington man's automobile, Sheriff Ronald Peterson revealed Wednesday.

Rafael Diaz Brito, Ricardo Reyes and Juan Cook refused to waive extradition back to Hancock, the sheriff said.

Peterson reported the three apparently stole an automobile owned by R.H. Harrington which was parked on US-90 near Pearllington.

The sheriff said Harrington reportedly parked his car near the highway and returned to find the auto missing.

The three are being held in Gonzales charged with possession of stolen property and will be extradited for grand larceny of an automobile, the sheriff noted.

Peterson said the Louisiana authorities arrested the Cubans and recovered the car based on an NCIC report which described the stolen vehicle.

ATTEMPTED RAPE

A Shoreline Park man was released Saturday night after posting $5,000 bond following his arrest earlier that evening for attempted rape, Seay reported.

The investigator said Gus Mitchell, 40, of Route 1, Box 187, Bay St. Louis is scheduled for a preliminary hearing Wednesday before Necaise at 6 p.m.

"He (Mitchell) apparently tried to forcibly rape the girl," Seay stated.

The investigator would not release the name of the woman.

"He (Mitchell) allegedly drove her to his house, tore the woman's clothes off and tried to rape her," Seay stated.

Seay is investigating the incident.

SHOPLIFTING

Henley reported a boy is in custody of the youth court after being arrested Friday night by Wilkerson for allegedly shoplifting a $2 toy from T.G. and Y.

DRUG CHARGE

A New Orleans man was released Tuesday night from the jail in lieu of $300 bond after his arrest for possession of marijuana and a controlled substance.

Chief Brenda Anderson of the Bay St. Louis Police Department Auxiliary Wednesday said Matthew T. Laura, 21, of 2737 Canal St., Apt. A., is scheduled for a preliminary hearing in city court at 7 p.m. Wednesday.

Anderson said she and Investigator Jim Clark of the Bay Police Department responded to a report of an apparent abandoned car on Seminary Drive.

The car's trunk and doors were unlocked and it appeared the automobile license plate had been switched, Anderson reported.

Based on their findings, the car was searched and three ounces of marijuana seeds and some capsules were found on the car floorboard.

The State Crime Laboratory in Gulfport is analyzing the capsules, she added.

The license number was checked through NCIC and found to belong to Laura, she said.

Anderson said the car was reported as being abandoned for about a week.

HGH trustees accept proposed '83 budget

By ELLIS CUEVAS

The trustees of Hancock General Hospital accepted a budget of $4,994,056, as recommended by Phil Langston, administrator.

The proposed budget still has to be approved by the Hancock County Board of Supervisors who contribute $170,000 towards the operation of the local hospital.

Langston said, "The last two years we have used the monies budgeted by the supervisors purchase of long term equipment which is instrumental in offering better services for the county."

Langston reported the bad debts for the previous year was higher than anticipated and a target has been set for the coming year and the administration were in hopes of reaching its goal.

Mike Dossett, HGH comptroller reported the bad debts collections for July were at 10.6 per cent, much lower than the 12 per cent in June.

The trustees also acted on a recommendation made by Langston for the changing of the insurance for the employees of HGH.

The employees are currently in a program offered by Blue Cross-Blue Shield. The change will be to a self-funded program offered by Quadrant of Jackson, Miss.

Langston stated, "It is the type of insurance coverage used by many hospitals in the state with State County being the first to use it and they seem to be pleased with its coverages."

A change-over for October is anticipated. Trustee Bobby Baxter abstained from voting on the insurance change with Perry Gibson voting against. The other trustees were in favor of the change.

The daily census at HGH was reported at 35 for the month of July compared to 33.6 for the same month last year. An average of 35 patients per day has been the census for the first 17 days of August.

The hospital is receiving bids for a mobile home which area will be used for the construction of a permanent building.

Junior Deputy benefit slated Friday night

Grand Ole Opry Star Charlie Louvin and The Sand Mountain Band will be the featured entertainers at a benefit for the Hancock County Junior Deputies Friday night at the Hancock County Fairgrounds.

Hancock Deputy Nathan Hoda, sponsor of the Junior Deputies, reports Jimmy Ladner and The Blue Lites featuring nine-year-old Andrea Ladner will kick-off the show at 6:30 p.m. followed by Louvin and his band at 7:30 p.m.

Other local entertainers will also perform for the benefit. Louvin has been a member of the Grand Ole Opry since 1955, and in addition to being a noted country and western singer, he and his brother Ira wrote in excess of 500 songs.

In 1978 Charlie Louvin had the honor of accepting the presentation inducting the Louvin Brothers into the Songwriters Hall of Fame.

Louvin holds 25 National No. One Awards, and he is known to have one of the best stage shows in the country music industry.

Funds raised at the event will be used by the Junior Deputies for the purchase of equipment, uniforms and activities of the group, according to Hoda.

Tickets are on sale at the Hancock Sheriff's office and from members of the Hancock County Junior Deputies and will also be at the door.

The Hancock County Fairgrounds are located on Longfellow Drive.

Highway Department promises improved Waveland signal lights

By ELLIS CUEVAS

The traffic signals at the intersection of US-90 and Waveland Avenue will be changed within a couple of months, according to Robert Mosley, Mississippi highway engineer.

Mosley said, "Highway Commissioner Bob Joiner has had us checking the intersection at the request of Waveland's Police Department to see if the signals needs to be changed. We have checked the accident history of the intersection and see a need for new signals."

Traffic counts will be taken within a few days to see the exact type of signals to be installed, the engineer reported.

Mosley indicated there will probably be a turn signal for westbound traffic on US-90 making a left on Waveland Avenue, saying he wasn't too sure about the eastbound turn signal for the Waveland Cut-off Road.

Waveland Mayor John Longo seemed elated over hearing the news Wednesday, stating, "That is fantastic, I know Waveland in addition to the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce and others have been trying to have the signals updated at the intersection of US-90 and Waveland Avenue."

In other matters Mosley said his department is studying the steel grating on the I-10 bridge over the Pearl and Pascagoula Rivers. Mosley commented, "There is a short span on the bridge over Pearl River and a much longer one over the Pascagoula River. We have applied a substance several months on the grid over the Pascagoula River and are checking the results. It is a very costly material and so far it is showing good signs."

"We realize the steel grids are less than desirable and are making efforts to correct the situation," Mosley stated.

The engineer reports his department has made a check on the number of accidents on the Pearl River Bridge and found out there were two in 1981, one during a rain storm and the other on a dry day.

This was a response to statements made by Hancock Coroner Carl Banderet after he investigated a fatality on the bridge in July of this year reporting the steel grating as being "extremely dangerous" when it is raining.

An investigation of the grating is scheduled next week by Mosley and Nollie McCarty, Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol inspector for the southern district.

He said they will talk with the highway patrolmen who patrol the bridge.

Beach treasure hunting can include living specimens

When the rest of your clan at the beach is building sand castles but you don't feel architecturally inclined, when a shark warning is keeping you out of the water, or when you're too beat to battle the waves any longer—don't despair.

The seaside fun's not over, according to Ranger Rick's nature magazine. You can always take a look at the creatures of the beach. Their variety ought to pique your interest for hours, says the monthly children's publication of the National Wildlife Federation.

Dozens of creatures stalk the beaches. They're armed with techniques to evade wind, waves, predators and even curious observers like you. You'll need a few clues about their habitats and habits to track them down, says Ranger Rick.

For instance, mole crabs, razor clams and sand hoppers can best be found on open beaches.

Sand hoppers, which look like shrimp, hide out in seaweed. These "hoppers" can jump as high as three feet in one leap, says the magazine, using their tails and three pairs of back legs for propulsion.

Razor clams use their feet for another purpose, according to Ranger Rick. Each of these long, thin clams, which bear a resemblance to straight-edged razors, has a surprisingly strong digging "foot," making it one of the fastest diggers on the shore. Its digging speed is its protection from predators. The strong foot also prevents it from being washed out to sea.

Mole crabs, also diggers, wave feathery antennae from the sand at the edge of the surf. When the waves break, mole crabs dart back and forth in shallow water and then dive into the ground. Only their antennae, which act as fishing nets to catch tiny plants and animals in the water, remain extended, explains the magazine.

Plume worms and sand dollars dodge predators and people on quiet, sheltered beaches.

Plume worms, like mole crabs, use feathery-looking hairy tentacles to capture food. This animal uses its sandy environment to build a tube to live in. Its skin secretes juices that harden to form the tube's lining. The exterior of the tube forms as sand sticks to the lining.

Its patterned, white-bleached skeleton, a popular find for beach-combers, has made sand dollars well-known seaside creatures. However, live sand dollars, which are at home in wet sand, are brown or purple. You can sometimes find them half buried at low tide when water is clear. From the sand dollar's velvety-looking, spine-covered body, Ranger Rick explains, fishermen once made ink.

Bogs and marshes are another home for seaside animals, says Ranger Rick. Look for parchment worms, fiddler crabs and moon snails in these wet regions protected from the open sea.

Parchment worms build U-shaped tunnels in shallow water. Light brown tips, or chimneys, of the tunnel protrude about an inch out of the sand at each end. Usually homebodies, parchment worms feed on minute food particles that pass through their tubes, according to Ranger Rick. If a passing crab or fish bites off its head when it ventures out of its home, it's no problem; a parchment worm simply grows another.

Fiddler crabs live in burrows high on the beach until low tide, says Ranger Rick, when they march down to set sand to feed. Each males uses a large foreclaw, its "fiddle," to attract mates and ward off rivals. When the tide turns, fiddler crabs scamper back to their homes, sealing off the front entrances with mud so they won't be flooded.

Moon snails also spend much of their time under the sand. Using a digging foot similar to the razor clam's, explains the magazine, they create small lumps of sand or mud as they move along the shore. To capture a moon snail, dig down at the edge of one of the moving lumps and lift up. You probably won't see his digging foot, however. When he senses danger, he retracts it quickly.

Free enterprise assuming financial responsibility for Los Angeles Olympics

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article, entitled "Los Angeles 1984: The First Private Enterprise Olympics" by Vernon Stauble, a former Olympian, professor of business administration at San Bernardino Valley College, currently coach-manager of the Claremont Colleges cycling team and a Claremont faculty advisor on velodrome proposals for the 1984 Olympics, is furnished to the Sea Coast Echo by Public Research, Syndicated of Claremont, Calif.

On July 28, two years hence, the lighting of the Olympic flame at the Los Angeles Coliseum will open the XXIIIrd modern Olympiad.

Ever since 1896, when the donation of one million drachmas by a Greek philanthropist named Georgios Averoff made possible the revival of the ancient games, financing has been a recurrent concern.

Past attempts at public financing, by the host city and country, have resulted in deficits, ranging up to the $1 billion deficit endured by the city of Montreal after the 1976 Summer Games.

The Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee, a private, non-profit organization, will attempt to finance the 1984 Games with receipts from the Games themselves, with private contributions, and with other income generating programs.

Committee President Peter Ueberroth states that "for the 1984 Games it is going to be the private sector which in large measure will provide the needed funds—as well it should."

For the first time the Organizing Committee will be independent of the country's Olympic committee in taking full financial responsibility for the conduct of the Games: it will control all receipts, will make all disbursements, and will make all cash flow arrangements.

It will be responsible for accommodating the needs of the International Olympic Committee (a private, non-profit corporation having supreme authority over the Games), the United States Olympic Committee, the International Sport Federations, and the host city.

All operating decisions will be made by the local Organizing Committee pursuant to contractual agreements, with a handsome share of the proceeds going to the International Olympic Committee.

Large sums of money are involved. In the case of revenue receipts, the largest recorded sale in history for the national television rights to Olympic coverage and television services was negotiated with ABC network for $255 million, of which the LAOOC will get about $214 million and the IOC about $41 million.

For the European and Japanese broadcasters, demands up to $100 million have been reported; for the Australian broadcasters the figure was $10.6 million (ten times that of the previous Games).

Also, for the first time radio rights have been sold to the ABC Radio Network for $500,000 plus an agreement by ABC to serve as the official host for hundreds of foreign radio broadcasters.

Further, twelve companies have completed negotiations for sponsorship agreements amounting to $70 million, including Coca-Cola Company's unprecedented $15 million (ten times the amount allotted to previous Games).

The LAOOC has envisioned up to 50 such corporate sponsors with commitments of $350 million. This figure excludes the other sales provisions such as admission tickets, stamps, programs, concessions, commercial licenses entitling manufacturers to sell souvenir items carrying LA's official Olympic emblem, and the coin program.

According to LAOOC Board Member John Argue, "these are private enterprise games and the committee is controlled by private enterprise."

But some have objected to a free enterprise Olympics. The biweekly newspaper, Soviet Culture, charges that "American big business has seized control of the preparation of the Games, perverting the Olympic ideals."

Nonetheless, the LAOOC does not believe that the profit motive is inconsistent with athletic excellence. A major requirement for selected sponsors is a total dedication to sport. As President Ueberroth has said, "it is important that those who assist the Olympic movement in Los Angeles in 1984 are thoroughly committed to sports, and to the youth of the world."

The LAOOC has accepted an extraordinary challenge. It is to conduct the games in a manner befitting their dignity, but without extravagance. If the committee succeeds—and there is much reason to think that it will succeed—the future of the Olympic Movement will be preserved, and the committee itself will have set a new mark of Olympic excellence.

GCRL repair projects funded

The State Building Commission in July allotted $101,800 to the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory for repair and renovation projects during the 1983 fiscal year, according to Robert "Ochsner," administrative officer.

Ochsner said that some of the money will provide new air conditioning systems to replace old ones in the east teaching laboratory of the Hopkins Building, and in the GCRL faculty house.

Three site improvement projects are planned. One will replace a narrow asphalt driveway with a 20' wide concrete drive to serve two campus residences. A small frame cottage will be moved from near the Laboratory entrance to a location east of the toxicology facility.

The third site improvement project will be to put a brick veneer exterior on the metal prefabricated building in Block 2 that has served as the Laboratory Education Center for about ten years. After considerable discussion, a new structure nearby, the old building will be made compatible in appearance and given a new use as an animal rearing and holding building for the Center.

St. Augustine novitiates to take first vows Sunday

Twenty three-year-old twin brothers Chester and Charles Smith of Chicago, Ill. will be among eight young men who will profess their first vows in Bay St. Louis Sunday as members of the Society of the Divine Word.

Also taking first vows in the 10 a.m. ceremonies at St.

Augustine's Seminary Chapel will be James Michael Courtney, 23, of Walton, N.Y. who has been interpreting chapel Masses during his novitiate year at the seminary into American Sign Language for deaf Catholics in the community.

Mississippi native Charles

Rogers Hannan Jr., 33, of Clarksdale and Vietnam natives Peter Sam Cao Nguyen, 22, of Tam-Binh and Anton Trinh Thai, 26, of Saigon have also completed their novitiate year at St. Augustine's and will profess first vows Sunday.

Timothy M. Donnelly of Napoleon, Ohio and David Noonan, 23, of Anamosa, Iowa complete the 1982 St. Augustine novitiate class.

REAL VIEWS ON REAL ESTATE

Dr. Dennis Tosh is holder of the J. Ed Turner Chair of Real Estate at The University of Mississippi

By Dr. Dennis Tosh

QUESTION: We are trying to sell our house without the aid of a real estate broker and would appreciate any help you can give us on how we can show our house. T. F. Jackson

ANSWER: Dear T. F. When showing your home to potential buyers, consider these tips:

—A well-lighted home is inviting. Open your draperies during the day and turn on all your lights in the evening. The rooms will look larger and the people looking at your home will be better able to see what it has to offer.

—Avoid having too many people present during inspection. Otherwise, the potential buyer may feel like an intruder and hurry through the house. While you may have great neighbors, the time for them to meet your potential buyer is not during the showing of your home.

—Turn off the radio and television so there will be no distractions. You certainly want potential buyers to believe your interest is with them and not with a show on TV.

—Small children often have the uncanny knack of interrupting at the very moment the prospect is asking for information. For instance, they may want to show their room or display what they made at school just when the potential buyers are interested in learning about the heating system.

Make an agreement with your spouse that one of you will occupy the children while the other remains available to answer questions. You may want to consider having one of you leave with the children while the other spouse shows the house.

—Keep pets out of the house during inspection. People who are not accustomed to house pets may be offended by seeing a cat or dog in a chair or on a table. Also, remember that an odor may exist that is less than desirable.

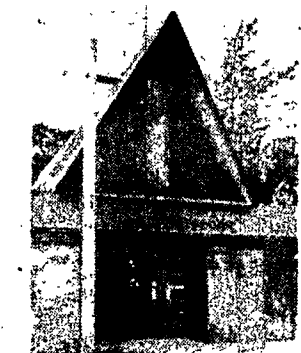

—Be courteous, but do not try to force conversation with the potential buyer. The prospect wants to inspect your house, not visit. Do not "oversell" your house. Few, if any, buyers are interested in a hard sell on your part.

—Finally, and perhaps most obviously, make sure your house is neat and clean. Would-be buyers are quickly turned off by a dirty and messy house. A little time and effort spent on getting your house ready for inspection can be time well spent in terms of a potential sale.

PRC completes cafeteria, student center improvements

Students arriving for fall semester at Pearl River College will find larger cafeteria facilities and a completely remodeled Student Center and bookstore.

"We will have our renovations almost complete when the students come back this fall," Larry L. Stanford, the college's public relations director said recently.

"We have renovated the cafeteria adding two new wings, which will seat an additional 150 people, plus a new foyer and larger, new bathrooms at the entranceway. There will also be two new serving lines, instead of the one we had before, so that should speed things up considerably. And then there are big new awnings out front to protect our commuter students who are waiting on the buses in bad weather," Stanford said.

The newly renovated Student Center will also be virtually complete when students return, Stanford said.

"Inside the Student Center, we've doubled the size of our bookstore, with an expanded line of merchandise, with more books, clothing and school supplies than we have had in the past."

"There will also be a new grill area with a wooden deck that comes out the east side of the Student Center. And there will be a new nursing office and two conference rooms which will be used by student organizations and the Student Council," Stanford said.

Renovations of Shivers Gymnasium will now provide a two-story area with rooms for such activities as cards, pool, video games, studying and watching television. Those activities will now be located there, instead of at the Student Center, he said.

Enrollment is expected to be about the same as last year, Stanford said.

"We expect to hold our own in enrollment. Comparing the last two years, we're running ahead on applications, but you really don't know until registration," Stanford said.

"Financially, we're in good sound condition. Although, without an increase in state support we have had to look at everything more closely. We have not had to lay off any staff members," Stanford said, although he noted the college had raised tuition fees from $175 to $190 back in April.

Current college fees per semester include: tuition, $190; books, $30; ticket for noon meals, $130; bus transportation, $100.

In addition to academic college courses, which can be transferred to any university nationwide, Stanford noted the college has a strong vocational-technical program, where students can take one or two years and plug into the work force," he said.

Another "big plus" at Pearl River Junior College, Stanford said, is the college's aggressive placement service.

"Last year we had 148 employers in touch with our vo-tech people who were looking for people to fill specific jobs. Some of our graduates had difficulty finding jobs this year, since the economy has been tight, but it does make it good when employers will come to the campus," Stanford said.

Graduates from the college's registered nursing program, however, found at least three or four job opportunities waiting for each of them, Stanford said.

The college also has an industrial coordinator who tailors the college's programs to fit the needs of industries in the area served by the college, Stanford said.

Future plans at the college include the construction of another dormitory, to provide more living space.

"We are looking for another good year," Stanford said.

USM GRADS—The C.J. (Pete) Taylor family, who hold ten academic degrees from the University of Southern Mississippi, includes, from left, David, Douglas, Gloria, Jeanne, Pete, Dan and Barbara. Barbara graduated last Friday and became the seventh member of the family to receive a USM diploma.

USM's Pete Taylor family accumulates 10 degrees

When Barbara Taylor received her bachelor of science degree in recreation she became the seventh member of her family to graduate from the University of Southern Mississippi.

Barbara, youngest of the five children of Pete and Gloria Taylor, graduated last Friday night and earned the tenth academic degree held by family members.

Pete, assistant athletic director at USM, started it all in 1947 with a BS in History. He had returned from three years of service in the U.S. Air Force with two Presidential Citations, a Bronze Star and five major campaigns to his credit.

In the early '60s, he completed a MS degree in physical education and was named assistant athletic director in 1965.

Gloria, associate professor of business education at USM, followed with a BS in business education in 1966, a MS in the same field in '67 and an EdD in curriculum and instruction with an emphasis in business education in 1970.

Daughter Jeanne graduated in '75 with a BS in physical education and sons Dan, 1970, and Douglas, 1979, received degrees in mechanical technology and social studies, athletic administration and coaching, respectively.

Another son, David, earned a BS degree in photo journalism in 1981.

The Taylors' association with USM has been long and dedicated. Pete and Gloria returned to the campus in 1955.

Pete, who coached football and Gloria to be a housewife, mother and part-time student. They lived in a faculty apartment in those early years and as time passed Pete became USM's baseball coach and Gloria accumulated courses toward her degrees.

With the birth of David, the Taylors moved off campus to a residential section of Hattiesburg and continued a family tradition of USM graduates.

At one time, the Taylors had four of the five children enrolled at USM.

"The school's cafeteria would close on Sunday nights," Gloria remembered.

"And all the kids would bring their friends home for something to eat. Things would get pretty hectic."

"We are proud of all our children," Pete said. "The best day's work I ever did was the day I married Gloria and she and I are so very proud to see our kids graduate from USM and do well in society."

"Jeanne is an assistant to the athletic director at Ole Miss," Gloria said. "Dan is a sales engineer in Houston, Douglas is a teacher and coach in Lafayette, David is a commercial photographer in Houston and Barbara is looking."

Borg-Warner reports record earnings

Borg-Warner reports its earnings for both the second quarter and first half of 1982 were record highs for the company.

Leading the earnings increase were continued gains from the company's growing service businesses.

While second-quarter operating profits from manufacturing, excluding non-recurring items were even with last year, earnings from affiliates were down sharply, to $12 million from $17 million.

Leonard A. Harvey, president of Borg-Warner Chemicals, Inc., remarked that the financial performance of the chemicals operations was off from the prior year due to soft market conditions in Europe.

Net earnings for the corporation for the second quarter were $46.7 million, or $1.10 per share, up 11 percent from the $42 million and 97 cents per share earned in the same period last year.

Net sales, including revenues from the newly consolidated protective service operations, totaled $844 million for the quarter, compared with $802 million the year before.

James F. Bere, chairman and chief executive officer, said he was encouraged that the company's operations had held up as well as they had in the current economic climate.

At the same time, he cautioned that much of the second quarter gain in net earnings resulted from a substantial difference in tax rates between the comparable quarters and a profit on the sale of approximately 700,000 shares of Gould common stock.

First-half earnings totaled $83.0 million, or $1.95 per share, an 8 percent increase from earnings of $76.6 million, or $1.77 per share, for the first six months last year. Sales and service revenue equaled $1.56 billion, compared with $1.56 billion during the first half of 1981 on the restated basis. Return on sales for the company was 5.2 percent, compared with 4.9 percent in the year-earlier period.

The decision to consolidate the protective service operations at this time was due to the second quarter acquisition of Burns International.

Combined, Burns and Baker service revenues will be almost $700 million on an annualized basis. With the Burns acquisition, the Protective Services group has reached a size relative to Borg-Warner where consolidated data provide a more meaningful picture of the company, said Bere.

The consolidation does not change Borg-Warner net earnings, he added, but it does add protective service revenues to reported sales for the company. The decision will have little impact on key financial ratios except for debt-to-equity which will increase to 36.6 percent because of the addition of $38 million of Baker and Burns debt to the Borg-Warner balance sheet.

The Financial Services group, also wholly owned, is not affected by the change. Its results will continue to be reported on an unconsolidated basis. Gross income for the group in 1982 will exceed $500 million.

The acquisition of Burns International for approximately $82 million was effective on June 1, but its results for June had little impact on net income for the quarter or first half, the company said.

DRUG QUIZ

QUESTION - Which one of these is not a symptom of possible misuse of stimulants?

- a) Excessively active, irritable, argumentative, or nervous
- b) Slowing of speech and actions
- c) Long periods without eating or sleeping
- d) Possible feelings of paranoia

ANSWER - Stimulants affect the central nervous system by accelerating the functions of the body. Just as barbiturates are commonly called "downers" because they depress the central nervous system, amphetamines are called "uppers" because they stimulate it.
Correct answer - b.

QUESTION - Death via paralysis of the respiratory system would result from 50-60 milligrams of nicotine being administered at one time into the bloodstream. To inhale 60 mg. of nicotine, a person would have to smoke:

- a) 2 packs of cigarettes
- b) 10 packs of cigarettes
- c) 50 packs of cigarettes
- d) 100 packs of cigarettes

ANSWER - About 60 mg. of nicotine actually are inhaled in smoking 1½ packs of cigarettes. Two factors prevent an immediate lethal reaction: (1) a smoker ingests nicotine over many hours, allowing the body to dispose of it gradually, and (2) the smoker develops a tolerance to nicotine's presence in his system.
Correct answer - a.

QUESTION - According to the latest statistics, what percentage of adults in the United States drink alcoholic beverages?

- a) 60%
- b) 70%
- c) 80%
- d) 90%

ANSWER - The latest survey reveals that 110 million Americans (age 16 and above) consume alcoholic beverages. This is 71% of that segment of the population.
Correct answer - b.

NEWS Of Education

Dispelling Bilingual Myths

Encouraging a child to speak his own language will inhibit his learning a second language. Fact or fiction?

According to one expert in bilingualism and ethnicity at the University of Pennsylvania, such thinking is one of many myths that have arisen around bilingual education.

A person can speak two languages or two dialects, declares Dr. Kathryn Woolard, anthropologist and assistant professor in the university's graduate school of education.

The United States, she points out, differs from many parts of the world where people are routinely bilingual or trilingual.

A view often held—one that comes to us from 19th-century Europe—is that differences in language and culture are threatening and have to be changed.

The influx of many minority groups into the U.S. in recent years has changed much of our thinking and made bilingual education an important consideration.

"It is basic human dignity for children to have the right to speak their own language and have it recognized as a real language," says Dr. Woolard. She cites Black English, which wasn't recognized as a systematic confronting minorities."

Children should be encouraged to continue speaking their native language while learning English.

Dr. Woolard considers the ideal mix the ability to speak one's own language and also learn standard English. This should be done, she says, without judging or labeling or somehow indicating that one is inappropriate.

However, she cautions that language may obscure the real problems for America's minorities—those that are economic and social.

"Speaking standard English," she points out, "is not going to get a job. It's a prerequisite but it should not be regarded as the solution to the major problems recognized as a systematic confronting minorities."

DuPont's unique 12-hour shifts net 7-day 'vacation' every month

The Du Pont plant in Delaware is continuing an experiment with a 12-hour shift schedule for another year.

The plant began the trial period in August, 1981 when one-third of the shift workers went on the 12-hour shift rotation. The remainder of the workforce stayed on the traditional eight-hour shift rotation.

The first trial period was so successful, the entire shift population changed to 12-hour shifts in January, 1982.

There are many reasons the DuPont plant began its experiment with 12-hour shifts, including overwhelming employee interest. The alternative schedule gives the employee more time off each month while at the same time increasing pay by providing more scheduled work hours during the month, according to David Settle, plant manager.

The 12-hour shift schedule trial period is being extended for another 12 months for further study on the effects on plant safety, productivity, tardiness, attendance, communications, and overtime availability.

While all these factors have been studied since the trial period began last August, it is difficult to assess the effect of the 12-hour shift on the employees during peak production times, Settle revealed.

Because of the current depressed world market for titanium dioxide caused by the general economic recession, the DuPont plant is not running at full capacity.

Plant production will increase as the economy strengthens. This will affect the employees by increasing the workload, demand for overtime, and the need for higher productivity levels.

No final decision can be made on making the 12-hour schedule permanent at DuPont until the evaluation is completed during high production periods.

The employees have expressed strong positive feelings about the 12-hour schedule. In addition to increased pay and time off, many are finding they save gas because they only drive to work 14 days a month instead of 20 days as it was on eight-hour shifts.

Some employees have even experienced a bonus in that the reduced driving has led to lower auto insurance rates. Overall, there is a general improved employee perspective on shift work.

The traditional eight-hour shift rotation, which DuPont employees worked from June, 1979, to August, 1981, required the employee to rotate through three shifts in a month's time.

The employee worked six days on 6 a.m. to 4 p.m. and then had two days off. They worked 4 p.m. to midnight for seven days, followed by two days off. On the third shift, the employee worked from midnight to 8 a.m., "the graveyard shift," for seven days followed by a four-day weekend.

In the month he worked 20 days, 160 hours and had eight days off. The schedule only gave the employee one weekend off a month. The remaining six days were scheduled during the week.

By contrast, on the 12-hour shift, an employee works 14 days, 168 hours, and has 14 days off. The shifts run from 6:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. (day shift) and 6:30 p.m. to 6:30 a.m. (night shift).

In the rotation, the employee works four 6:30 p.m. to 6:30 a.m. night shifts, and then has three days off.

Then work three day shifts, starting at 6:30 a.m., followed by one day off. The employee again works on the night shift for three nights and then has a three-day weekend off. To finish the rotation, there are four more day shifts and then seven consecutive days off.

To most employees, the seven-day break is like having a week of vacation each month.

A few negative aspects have been found in the studies conducted thus far.

Some areas of the plant have experienced an increase in the number of employees reporting to work late and some have had difficulty filling overtime needs.

Plant management sees these and other difficulties as manageable and are relying on continued employee interest to help work out the problems.

SCREENING ROOM ONLY

BY DAVID H. JONES

This column deals obstinately in entertainment observation. More specifically, my particular views of a particular entertainment event, whether it be a movie, a play or television.

Entertainment means to amuse or to divert attention. Please, take a few moments and divert your attention to the following amusement.

I had just gotten on the bridge, that long, drab two-lane strip of highway slab that spans choppy Lake Pontchartrain and connects Slidell with the eastern suburbs of New Orleans. I was felling comfortable insulated from the heat of the day, tucked safely behind blowers of cool air conditioning while being serenaded by the pop tunes of AM radio.

Suddenly...the tranquility of the monotonous drive was interrupted by unfamiliarity. Dots began appearing—several thousand black dots—just a few hundred yards up the road. I squinted and continued my headlong, motorized plunge down the interstate.

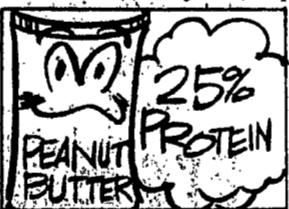

They came in droves, enraptured in flight. A rainstorm of monarch butterflies in their annual migratory pilgrimage. Brilliantly colored and proud, the butterflies glided through the summer air; colored snowflakes that floated and tumbled over and through traffic. Unabashed traffic I might add!

As I began to infiltrate the moving insect cloud, I discovered an intersection of delicacy, death and dying.

For as far as you could see, on both sides, they came and went. On my left, the uninitiated, the naive flew along, simply following the leader over the steel-grey lake water. The hot winds began to pick up as the flock approached the bridge.

Behind me, in my rearview mirror, I saw a Mack truck crest the hill. Then another, nearly grill to grill with the Mack, popped into sight. I felt no air conditioning. I heard no music. My thoughts were transfixed on this ballet of brilliance and utter, unstoppable force.

Traffic was everywhere but the big eighteen-wheelers were the extreme. The Goliath of this 20th century matchup.

Peanut butter contains about 25 percent protein.

Forty tons of hot metal screaming, spitting and spinning tires at 75 miles an hour. A faceless driver pulls yet another gear into place and turns on his windshield wipers. The stainless steel grill gleams, almost smiling, highlighting the destruction.

As the monarchs soar over the bridge a whirlwind tornado reaches up and claws at their near weightlessness. Hundreds are torn and twisted and flung about; their paper-thin wings, supported by thread-like ribs flapping wildly against a shredding wind. Sucked into a deadly tunnel, tumbling down into the dying eye to be run over by hard rolling rubber and sound.

To my right, the survivors. Some are so badly hurt they fall from the sky and float lazily on the surface of the waves until, one would suspect, some finny lake inhabitant will break the barrier of water and air and hungrily scarf down the injured insect.

With a lemming mentality, the ones that remain intact continue to wing their way toward a goal, a homeland; a distant, invisible nirvana of some importance, at least of enough importance that these former caterpillars would risk being ground to a pulp. Or being gobbled by starlings. Or simply dying of exhaustion.

As they flew away, these aloft visions of victory, I silently prayed they would reach their goal.

They kept coming even after I had gotten off the bridge, a rumbling truck on my bumper. And then the image appeared in my mind: I wondered if, when I returned home, there might not be hundreds of monarch butterflies perfectly pressed into the concrete, all in flight poses. A kind of permanent, plastered monarch butterfly wallpaper forever draped over the lake, lending a quaint atmosphere to this otherwise desolate stretch of concrete and serving as a reminder of an obstacle that was faced and overcome. But not without heavy losses.

I thought, "Memories are our life, while dreams are our goals."

After this overzealous philosophical interlude, I returned to my immediate arena of interstate, air conditioning and pop music.

International Paper seeks Mississippi grads

The bountiful forests of the U.S. South continue to provide the wood for half the nation's pulp and paper needs and, increasingly, Southern universities are developing more of those valuable resources.

International Paper, the world's largest paper company, recruits 50 percent of its management trainees from Southern universities.

This year, 19 company recruits were graduates of schools in Mississippi.

"We recruit and hire graduates from several universities in Mississippi, because IP's presence in the state goes back well over half a century," says Robert McDonald, IP's manager of corporate recruiting.

"Many of those graduates are engineers, IP wants to be the technological leader in the industry, and that means hiring more engineers and expanding our technical staff."

"Over the past six years, five percent of our management recruits were graduates of Mississippi State University. Since its school of forestry is one of the finest in the nation, it's natural that strong ties have developed between Mississippi State and IP," McDonald added.

Over 150 alumni of Mississippi State are currently employed at IP, working in management disciplines such as forestry, research, accounting, and engineering.

"Mississippi State University has had a fine relationship with IP," says Dr. Charles Lee, Dean of the School of Forest Resources at Mississippi State. "One measure is the confidence IP has had in our graduates, including those in the field of wildlife management, who understand and work toward achieving a delicate balance between forest management and wildlife habitat. We anticipate forestry and forest products will continue to be a dominant part of the Mississippi economy."

Mississippi State University was established in 1878, and maintains a total enrollment of over 11,000. IP, which has pulp and paper mills at Moss Point, Natchez and Vicksburg, employs about 3,000 people in the state.

Children new to Mississippi schools must provide immunization certificate

Back-to-school supplies include pencils and paper, tough new jeans and sensible shoes, plus a "blue slip" and a birth certificate.

Children who enroll in Mississippi kindergartens or first grades for the 1982-83 session are required to have the blue certificate of compliance for proof of immunization and a birth certificate.

Immunization compliance forms and birth certificate application forms are available from the county health department. Private physicians and other health care providers also offer the certificate of compliance. Proof of prior immunizations is required before the certificate can be issued.

Only children enrolling in school for the first time—kindergarten, first grade, or from a non-Mississippi school system—need the certificate of compliance.

Currently enrolled students in grades two through 12 already have valid certificates on file.

Birth certificates may be obtained by writing the State Department of Health, Vital Records, P.O. Box 1700, Jackson, MS 39205. Parents may request the short form birth certificate which meets school requirements and costs half as much as the long form. Written requests for the short form with the $5 fee should include the child's full name and date and county of birth, the mother's maiden name, and the father's name. Checks or money orders should be made payable to the State Department of Health.

The booklet also outlines the anatomy of lightning, explains how it kills and injures, how and why it destroys, the do's and don'ts of personal lightning safety, and pinpoints the elements of lightning protection.

A free single copy of this booklet, write to the Lightning Protection Institute, 24 North Ayer Street, Haddonfield, IL 60033.

Hancock County talent to highlight 1982 Wildcats

Practice was for real in Poplarville Monday for the Pearl River College Wildcats.

After three days of just shorts and shoulder pads, J. C. Arban, the Wildcat's head coach, put his '82 edition of the Cats through a controlled scrimmage of rock 'em-sock 'em football.

"We were very aggressive," smiled Arban, "we definitely have possibilities."

Full gear gave Arban and his assistants Wayne Jones and Herbert Morris a better idea of just how tough the Wildcats will be when the season begins for real Thursday, Sept. 2 at East Mississippi.

"I was well pleased with what I saw," said Arban, who is starting his eighth year at the Wildcat helm. "As usual our defense is ahead of the offense, and of course, we need more work, but I like what I saw."

Sophomore defensive lineman impressing Arban were sophomores Jeff Walts (225), Oak Grove, Mike Gallo

(205), Picayune; Billy Kent Smith (200), Poplarville, and freshman Richard Hughes (200) of Lumberton. The PRC coaches were also very pleased with the offensive center Kyle Dossett (200) of Picayune and guard Gregg Harris, a freshman signer from Lafayette. Tommy Hillman, (220) a tight end and linebacker from Petal is also showing up great.

According to Arban a real dogfight has developed for the two positions up for grab as linebacker. Nine players are really fighting for the starting positions. "They are all doing a great job," Arban said. "There is really some mean competition for that position."

All the Wildcats need in the punting game at this time is more depth as full-back-punter Scott Senner of St. Stanislaus is booming the football sixty and seventy yards and kick off specialist Tony Smith is putting the ball well into the endzone.

Other freshmen Arban is pleased to talk about are Doug Norris, an Oak Grove quarterback, L.C. Hopkins, a Hattiesburg tailback and Shannon Ramsey, an offensive guard and defensive lineman from Picayune.

"Norris throws well and is a very smart signal caller," Arban said. "Hopkins will see a lot of action as will Ramsey at the guard and defensive end spots."

Ben Robertson of East Marion and Deneal McEmore of Lumberton look like they will make the corner positions.

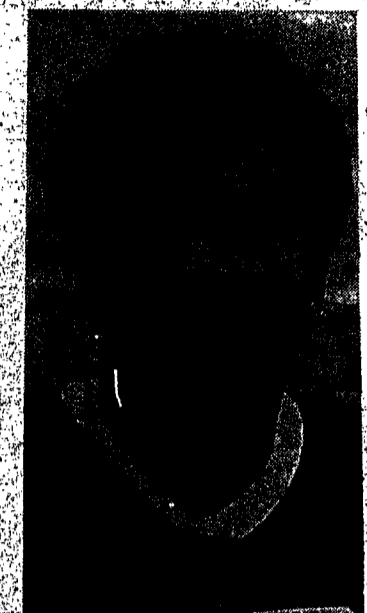

"It is early to make predictions," Arban said. "But I do know we have a lot of hustle and aggressiveness."

SPORTS

Bulldogs padded this week as waterproofing against Wave

With a week of practice under its belt, Mississippi State intensified preparations for the Sept. 4 football opener at Tulane with pads put on Tuesday.

Head Coach Emory Ballard and his staff have been busily preparing the squad in heavy conditioning phases and are using the "building block" method to move toward the actual game plan against the Green Wave at the Louisiana Superdome.

"We are utilizing an individual, unit, group, and team progression to develop toward our goals," Ballard said. "The heavy accentuation in shorts has been on conditioning."

"We have been doing this so that we would be fully prepared to get into all areas of contact once we started hitting Tuesday," he explained late last week.

As expected, junior 6-4, 210-pound signalcaller John Bond of Starkville via Valdosta (Ga.) High School has been running the first unit.

"John is a fierce competitor," Ballard related, and if we were to start playing tomorrow, he would be our No. 1 quarterback. He's tough as a boot and loves the challenge, and we've won 17 of 24 games in the two years he has been here."

State's personnel chart shows excellent experience for the offensive unit, and early practices have made it evident that there is a strong "commitment and willingness" in the words of the head coach.

"The team reported in the best shape of any Mississippi State squad in the four years that I have been here," explained Ballard.

But no observers are discounting the toughness of the Bulldogs' schedule during the practice period.

For starters, Tulane captured five of its last six games in 1981 en route to a 6-5 mark, and LSU was a 48-7 victim of the Greenies' in the season finale. Two weeks from Saturday both the Bulldogs and TU take off "the wraps."

MSU will remain in closed two-a-day sessions from Aug. 17-24 before downshifting to single practice drills on Wednesday, Aug. 25, when classes begin. That's also the annual date for the SEC Sky Writers' tour visit.

READY FOR ANOTHER YEAR—The Pearl River College's coaches prepare for the arrival of some 30 players for fall practice. Freshman and sophomore players reported Friday to start preparation for a 10 game 1982 schedule. Looking over

A $150 cash award and a trophy will be presented to the champion. The runner up will receive $50.

Contestants may register at the Factory Seafood Restaurant. A $10 entry fee is required and will include tickets to the fights both nights.

The fights will feature contestants from all over the Gulf Coast in the light heavyweight and heavyweight divisions. The winner in each weight class will receive $1,000 and a trophy.

Stroh's beer will be given away each night. General admission seats are $5. Ringside seats are $10 and reserved telescopic, $8.

Tickets may be purchased at the Coliseum Box Office and Lolacano's Health Club.

Coast Guard nixes boating accessory

The U.S. Coast Guard reports the Bowlite model combination sidelight manufactured by Fulton Industries of Wauseon, Ohio does not meet required safety regulations.

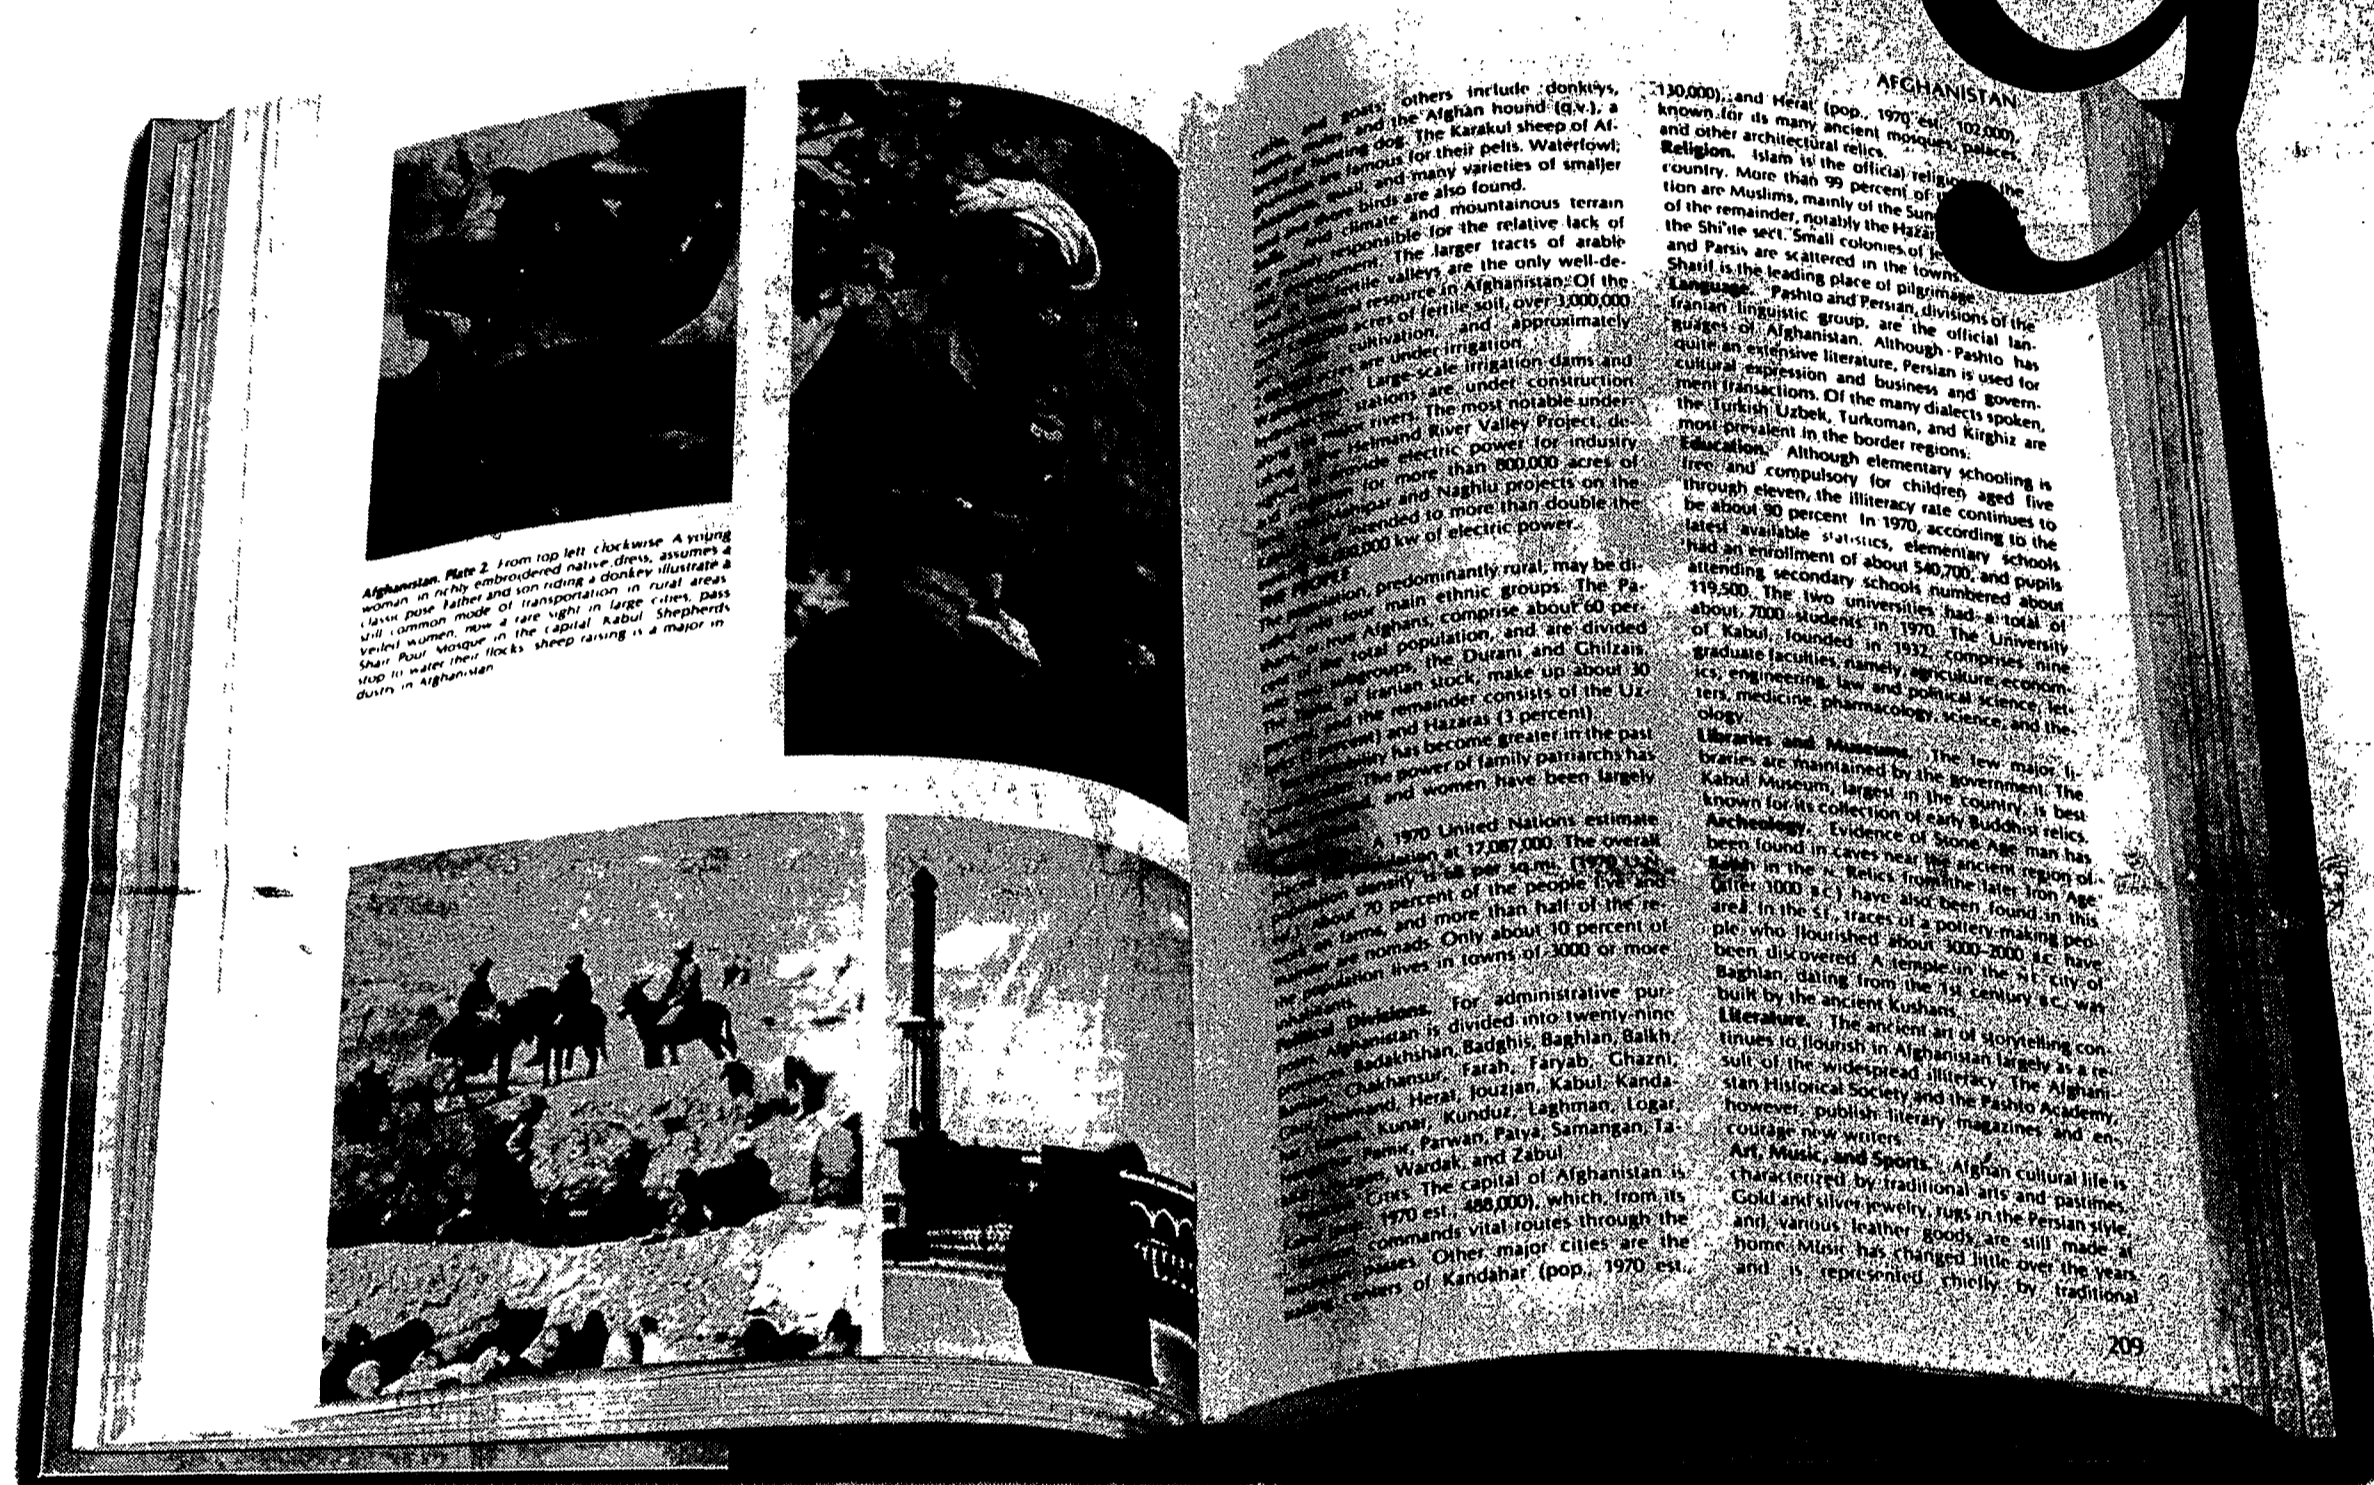

Combination sidelights must show an unbroken light over an arc of 112.5 degrees on each side and must be visible from at least one mile away, according to the International Rules for the Prevention of Collisions at Sea, the 1980 United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea and Coast Guard enforcement policy.

The Bowlite does not meet these requirements, and thus its use is a hazard to boating safety and constitutes a violation of Federal law for which the boat operator may be liable for a civil penalty of not more than $5,000 for each violation.

Boat owners and operators who have installed the Bowlite or similar portable lights are urged to install other lights that meet safety requirements.

A MESSAGE FROM MR. ROBERT SPILMAN, CHAIRMAN OF THE BOARD, BASSETT:

MR. ROBERT SPILMAN

In developing "Bargain Day U.S.A." Bassett Furniture Industries hopes to achieve three primary objectives:
First, to create the largest day of savings in history for America's Homemakers by assisting each participating store to offer important reductions on every item in their selection (not just Bassett products).
Second, to introduce Bassett's exciting new products to as many consumers as possible in a very short period of time. We feel "Bargain Day U.S.A." with its wide range of appeal should produce the biggest crowds ever at fine stores across America.
Finally, by underwriting and coordinating the largest home furnishings savings event in history, we hope to say a most sincere "Thank you" to the millions of customers, and thousands of retail stores that have made Bassett the world's largest single brand furniture manufacturer. Thank you, and happy shopping... from all seven-thousand of us at Bassett Furniture Industries.
Sincerely, Robert Spilman
